June 9, 2008

CONCORD, N.H. --A New Hampshire foundation that works to improve the lives of women and girls has received a $200,000 anonymous donation.

The Women's Fund of New Hampshire says the donation is a result of the nationwide Women Moving Millions campaign. The goal of the campaign is to inspire large gifts to women's funds.

Executive Director Marianne Jones says the donation will help support grants the fund gives to more than 150 organizations in the state. The organizations work toward combating violence against women and improving economic security and access to health care and education among other things.
