

Gender Minister Urges Rural Women

2008-12-11

By Janjay F. Campbell

The Minister of Gender and Development Varblah Gayflor has called on the rural women of every county to recognize their roles in developing the Country. She said that women should talk about the problems they are faced with in the society.

Minister Gayflor encouraged women to get up and talk about rape, about the violence against women in the Country. She said women should not sit and regret later; they should be able to talk about violence against women.

According to Minister Gayflor, women can make a change in the Country. Although women suffered through the war, they are still powerful people. She said the President of Liberia, Madam Ellen Johnson Sirleaf is not proud to affiliate with rural women.

The Ministry of Gender and Development yesterday held an official closing program marking the celebration of the 16-day activism against gender violence, held at the Monrovia City hall.

According to report, the rural women of every County will do their own structure and what ever program they wish to do. The Minister encouraged women to call each other leader.